

LIPTÓD NOW

1. Of how many Projects have you been a part of?
2. How much did you like the workshops from a scale of 1 to 10?
3. How did you felt about spending a week with strangers?
4. What were the highs and lows of this experience?

Eris

I've been part of only one other project other than this. It was in Croatia for 10 days, I still think about the people I've met there and about what I learned. I'd say a good 9. The only problem was time, because I think some of them should've lasted longer. I liked especially those where we had to talk about a topic and give our opinion, because I like to make conversation with different people, especially if they know more than me about something.

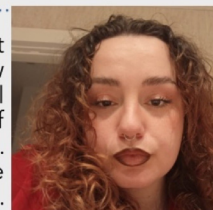

I was already easygoing about it, I think strangers are only friends I haven't annoyed yet, and I'm leaving this project without any stranger in the group. They all showed me love and I'll be back in Italy with each of them in my heart forever. There were tons of highs, like when I saw the starry night sky for the first time, when we all went to the wine cellar, when Valentina made my make up, when the girls gave me their gift, when I got the tattoo, when we went laser tag and when I met some of my friends from Kreaktiva. The only low was when my legs started hurting and I couldn't embarrass myself dancing as much as I wanted. Sleeping in my bed will never be the same without the gossip.

Coming back here has been quite an experience. Same place, different people, but the same fun and learning. That's the magic of Erasmus+ projects. No matter how many you go, it will always enrich your life. On the one hand we have had several workshops related to Internet and its good use, learning also the point of view of different nations, which has been very interesting.

Also by living with these different European nations we have learned a lot about the respective cultures, even tasting typical food and dancing traditional dances.

I would say that the least good thing, but not the worst because I have no complaints about this week, would be the fatigue. But this is because we all want to make the most of the time we have in Liptod to be together. That's why the best part of the week for me has been the people and sharing with them. I will miss this.

This was my first project. I had high expectations, but actually it was better than I expected. I really enjoyed participating in the workshop. The topics were always interesting for me, and I really appreciate to work in a team, talk in public, share my opinions and make jokes. I felt enriched by spending a whole week with new people from different countries. I loved to had shared and overshared myself because I always received good feedbacks. I loved those guys and I hope to stay in touch. Sometimes it could happen that, because of the tiredness, you run out of social battery, but in spite of that, people were so good it was impossible to be afraid. I enjoyed every single moment spent with the people and I felt so good with the group.

This project was my 12th-13th, here in Liptód my 4th. For me it was 10/10. One of my top 3 projects, I loved the people here. I'm used to how to relate to certain people, fortunately, as I mentioned before, I was able to spend this week with very good and nice, energetic people. If I had to single out one high point out of many, it was the toilet cleaning night, where we went to bed at 5am because we didn't notice how much time was passing, this was due to the fact that we had a very good company left for the sidequest. The lowest point I think will be when I say goodbye to everyone on Sunday night, but really that will be an emotional moment. Love these people a lot.
